files + functions

TOTAL Python

> Reminder: you can create functions to execute code each time they are called, avoiding code repetition and making it easier to read. This applies to file manipulation as well.

What does the function do?

What information does it need to receive?

```python
def manipulate_file(path, file_name):

    return
```

Code that turns inputs into outputs

What should it be its output?